Building your custom home can be a daunting task unless you have the right team assembled to take you from start to finish – and a builder you can trust. At High Winds on Broad Cove, we carefully interviewed over a dozen design-build firms, checked out their work in the field and then spoke with their references. Why did we do this? Two words: Quality Control.

We think you'll agree, at High Winds on Broad Cove, you can have location, quality and service because every home will be built with the highest standards and the highest degree of personal service offered anywhere.
